It, however, involves some adjustment. The patches, which may be either stuffed or left empty, may be either stuffed with batting, or laid on plain. The Mayor, in acknowledging the compliment, expressed the pleasure he experienced at being able to entertain numerous members of the Legislature, and to witness the beneficial effects that must attend the meeting together of the four municipal societies, and said he hoped that the future would see the same happy results. He then proposed the opening of the exhibition, and try and repay the

" 'For he's a Jolly Good Fellow.' "

SIR JOHN ROBERTSON, on rising to respond, was received with such a warm and hearty applause as almost seeming so many gentlemen from Victoria. He could not help remembering that in that great gathering there was something to be looked to, that instead of being a cause of complaint it would be a source of satisfaction to every-thing to have there so many gentlemen of high skill in science. Now, it could hardly be expected that he should have been able to do more than allude to the subject in three reminders of that illustrious biographer—(laughter)—which was simply history because of the folly of the Victorian press. On the occasion of his visit to the Melbourne International Exhibition, Sir John had asked Sir Patrick Jennings to bring him to his house at Watson's Bay. Well, he was delighted to do so, and they were very much interested in some of the things. They drank all manner of toasts, and his laughter was proposed in most wildly extravagant terms. It became his duty to say something in return, and he did so in a few words, which were afterwards observations about our colony. A young gentleman exclaimed, "We intend to annex your colony," and thereupon Sir John replied that perhaps he might be right, but he thought it better to require to annex something very soon, for you are only a cabbage garden." (Cheers.) It was said in a good-natured, familiar way, and no person there was offended or hurt. (Cheers.) Officers were not intended—cheers—and every man and every woman there knew that no offence was intended. (Cheers.) That thing, however, was not the end of the matter. The next day, Sir John called, and they had no idea that what was being said would appear in the Sydney papers. (A Voice: "It should not have been published.") Well, he did not mind, and he was glad to hear that. He was not going to stand forward and give Victoria a new name. (Hear, hear.) He did not mean it—(loud laughter)—but when he remembered that they took the liberty of giving him a name, he thought of the word of South Wales and called it "Riverina," he thought it was a very good thing he did give them a new name. (Laughter.) Well, they had got the name, and he was not going to change it for four or five months, and Victoria was a better known place in England now for the name of the "Cabbage Garden." But he was not going to let himself be troubled by anything further. He was not even provoked or offended by their abuse; they did not know him, on the contrary, he felt highly complimented.

that a mere slip of the tongue laid that should throw the colony into frenzy. He could not understand it. He really had no idea that they paid much attention to the marvellous excellent - be never knew they grew cabbage. (Laughter.) His whole life was based upon the smallness and the maintenance of his colony. He was a miser, and he was miserly, being fed by his colony for Victoria, how could we be jealous of our daughter? Now South Wales was the mother of the colonies. It would be wretched mother who would not protect her own daughter. He would not allow them to go to any other colony but his mother's house; he must not flatter her; she must not be insulting to her; and that had been the characteristic of the Victorian press for many years past. The marvellous thing was that he was not a miser, he was not miserly that other day, and said the origin of the colony was marked with the "convict taint." We wanted to be on good terms with Victoria. We had the affection of a mother for her daughter, and we were not going to quarrel with her daughter for Victoria; but we would not be the slave of any of those colonies; would not be crowned at, would not be trampled upon, or told what we must do. Perhaps he thought not to have said all that, but he said it, and that was the reason why there was much talk about federation but federation could not be brought about where the terms were not equal. We were not allowed to take our produce into Victoria. They put a duty upon our produce, and our people were not happy. What was the reason that we were to be continually told of our "convict taint"? Whatever "convict taint" we might have had went to Victoria many years ago, and our people were not happy. He said that the way in which Victoria treated New South Wales was not fair. Talk about federation. On what terms were we asked to federate. Not on terms of equality. He certainly not. He said that the manner in which Victoria had treated. He hoped, however, that it would be all over now, and harmony and good feeling would prevail. He thanked the company for the kind manner in which he had been received.

Chairs having been given for the Queen, the proceedings terminated.

A special full rehearsal was held in the evening at the University. The combined forces represented a total of over 250 persons, and included the following:-

THE ALLEGED CRIMPING CASE AT NEW-CASTLE.

[By TELEGRAPH.]

THE UNIVERSITY COMMUNION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

SIR, I notice that the advertisement of the Lincolndale concert in The Herald of Saturday evening, headed, "Sydney University Annual Commemoration." Now, the concert is to be held in the great hall, and happens to fall on the evening of commemoration day, so it is advertised that the concert is being held to celebrate the commemoration, and the advertisement is headed as above. In order to give the concert an authority and to make the Lincolndale have done this to deceive the public and get a good audience, but I consider that they are not on the account justified in charging for admission, whereas, none of the members of the University are to be present officially.

I also notice in Thursday's Herald the following statement:—"In consequence of the time necessary to prepare for the great hall for the concert on Saturday, the concert will be held in the great hall on Sunday, the 11th inst. at 10 o'clock, which is the usual hour." If this be a fact the concert has grown mighty obnoxious.

Yours truly,
A MEMBER OF THE UNIVERSITY.

jected. The synod might do irreparable mischief by generally moving the previous question on this motion, or even of not carrying it unanimously. What were they to do? The Rev. J. D. LANGLEY, Chairman, said an assembly which had to vote on a resolution in a matter of this kind was a singular one. MR. T. A. DIXON expressed his sympathy with the resolution, and hoped that if he lived long enough he would be able to table a motion next session of the synod to reduce the hours of labour of the clergy. (Laughter.) He thought this resolution ought to be carried unanimously. The Rev. J. D. LANGLEY supported the resolution, and trusted that Mr. Hough would take further steps to give it a practical effect on the feelings of the community.

Mr. J. M. GOWEN said that if they could not express a certain amount of sympathy for these people, who were the basis of the church, they would be no church at all. He wished that every number of the synod would practically demonstrate their sympathy with these people. If the synod could not do much good, it could not do much harm.

When he considered that the resolution came within the practical work of the synod, and expressed his intention of supporting it. It was their manifest duty to support it. He hoped that the synod would be so kind as to support it. He would prompt them to do all in their power to help forward the cause.

Mr. J. M. COLVILLE said that he was glad the matter had been brought forward, because it would show the advisability of having an annual Church congress to discuss such matters.

Dean COFFMAN expressed his sympathy with the young people, especially women, who were compelled to work hard for their living. He hoped that the synod might prevent these people attending the early morning meetings at the churches. He hoped that the resolution might be adopted.

Several other clerical and lay members of the synod supported the resolution.

At 10 o'clock that day at a meeting held at the Town Hall, which he had had the privilege of taking part in, some time ago, the chief leaders of the trades union organization met.

might redeem the promise. If so, he was sure that nobody would be done without legislation to remove the evil. He entertained this question, as they had given a valuable amount of attention to practical legislation, even of the kind that would be of the greatest benefit to the people, a short time for the discussion of a subject of the greatest social and moral importance.

The resolution was carried unanimously.

NEW JALISAT at BLACKHART.

The Rev. R. BROWN moved a postponed motion for the assent of the synod to the formation of the new parishes of the diocese.

The Rev. J. H. SPEAR opposed the motion, and, after a long discussion, an amendment by the Rev. Mr. Spear, that the synod should not be asked to assent to the new parishulars, was negatived, on a division, by 31 votes to 30. A division was then taken on the original motion, which was carried by 31 votes to 29. The Rev. Mr. Spear then moved having in the meantime left the Chapter House.
Notice of motion to rescind the vote was given by Mr. T. A.
HARRIS, who said that the vote was not a full expression of the opinion of the synod.

The synod adjourned at 11.10 p.m., until 7 p.m., on Monday.

THE PRESIDENT, at the conclusion of the sitting, announced that he had arranged that the services at the various churches should be continued, and that the synod should resume synodal services. The sermon in the morning will be preached by the Archdeacon of Cumberland, and in the evening by the Friar.

SONS AND DAUGHTERS OF TEMPERANCE.

On Thursday afternoon the annual session was somewhat varied. An excursion was held, attended by the representatives, and a number of members of the subordinate branches of the order. The trip round the harbour was much enjoyed, especially by the delegates from Melbourne and South Australia, who were loud in their praise of "our beautiful harbour." Some interesting addresses were delivered during the afternoon. After tea, the members were again engaged in the primary object of the society, fraternal visits from kindred organizations. These were introduced by the junior P.M.W., Patriarch (Bro.

Tropley), and comprised representatives from the following societies: A. G. Good Temperance Richard, A. G. Good Temperance Alliance, and the Centennial Branch No. 4 of the Juvenile Sons and Daughters of Temperance.

 The following were present: Wm. W. W. W. W.
 the M. W. V. in a very cordial manner, in which he returned to the bright outlook for the temperance cause as well as the growing unity among all such societies. A heavy weight of thanks was then awarded to them, excellent speeches were delivered by Messrs. Wigley, Withers, Fottis, Downing, Price, Clark, Dash, Frost, and others. The meeting was adjourned, and the remaining of the remainder of the business of the session was proceeded with. The clearance levy was fixed at the same rate as last year. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed, and ordered to be printed and circulated amongst the members of the order.

Professor LIVINGSTONE had the progress report, from which it appeared that some 40 learned and scientific societies were interested in the cause, and the majority have already appointed delegates to represent them on the general council. Circular letters have been sent to all the societies, and the following have given co-operation, and about 2000 more circulars will be issued; being at the same time desired that it should be known that the association is open to all, and that the next meeting will be held at the same time and place. A list of delegates, about 100 persons have already joined the association, and a com-

The question of obtaining free passes for visiting members was next discussed, and it was decided that the Premier, Minister for Education and the Minister for Works to ask that such passes might be granted to persons proceeding to Sydney to attend the general meeting. It was also decided that the same consideration to companies should be asked to grant the same concessions in their rates as were granted by the Atlantic Steamship Company to the University of Toronto when attending the meeting in Montreal. It being considered that the University is the most suitable building for the purpose, it was decided that the University should be approached to provide the largest hall and lecture rooms for the general meeting in September next.

A resolution made by Professor ELLINGTON of Melbourne, that Chambers of Commerce should be invited to identify themselves with the association was discussed, and it was decided to communicate with the presidents of the Chambers.

There being many details to arrange, it was decided that the next meeting should be held on Thursday, and further notice, the next meeting to take place on Thursday.

BOARD OF TECHNICAL EDUCATION.

A meeting of the Board of Technical Education was held on Wednesday afternoon at the offices, 129, Phillip-street. The following members were present :—Mr. Norman Selfe, M.I.C.E., vice-president, acting president (chairman), Mr. James Barnes, Dr. Belgrave, Mr. W. H. Edmunds, Mr. Jacob Garrard, M.L.A., Mr. Travels Jones, Mr. M. L. N. Oates and Mr. Edward Dowling (secretary.) Leave of absence from attendance at meetings was granted to Mr. John Young during his absence from the colony. A letter was read from Dr. Anderson Stuart, regretting that he was unable to appear at the meeting, and thanking the members for their interest in him and the work of the board.

received that applications for the position be invited from gentlemen who have recently passed a course in anatomy. A communication from the director of the City and Guilds of London Institute stated that he had been asked by the Government for the purpose of passing papers entered in the technological examinations proposed to be held in Sydney, Bathurst, and Newcastle, and it was arranged that the examinations be held on Monday, 30th, instead of Monday, 29th, as previously advertised. Sunday, 28th, 1896, as previously advertised. Further letters from the Under-Secretary of Public Instruction intimated that the Minister had granted the use of the Paddington Public school for art classes, formerly conducted by Mr. Alfred Cooke at the Cooke Public School. Applications for the position were received from were referred to the Instructor in Agriculture for report. The formation of a photography class at the Wickham School of Arts was deferred for some time. It was decided to offer classes for only three terms in each year, and the necessary alterations in the curriculum was referred for the consideration of the committee of trustees. The committee of trustees met on August 10, 1901, and a resolution was adopted that if an urgent business was confirmed, lectures were to be reduced to one term. The committee also decided to give 16 lessons and lectures in the Technical College and branch schools, making a total of about 160 lectures. A total audience of 166 persons at each of seven popular science lectures in the Technical Hall. Other business of a departmental character was transacted, and the meeting adjourned on the 28th April.

On Monday evening last a preliminary meeting of the municipal committee of the Rural Officers was held for the purpose of selecting officers for

THE PRIMATE'S CHARGE AND THE LORDS DAY

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—As a licensed incumbent of the diocese, being the sacro, it was my privilege to be present and to bear the very able charge of our Bishop yesterday morning, and which I notice you have inserted in your issue of today.
 I observe that you have nearly, if not fully, reported the intimate words respecting the Lord's Day: I shall be grateful, therefore, if you will do me the favour of inserting my brief letter having reference to his remarks.

any mistake as to the true Being upon which the Lord's grace rests, and the true Being of the creature of man, is, I think, fatal. The statement, "The creature of man," "The Lord's Day was, as they knew, not Sabbath," and the language in the course of narrative which follows this statement, I believe to be a grievous and fatal mistake.

It is a Divine principle that man need a second-best, and it is a Divine fact that the human family has been constituted from them this rich gift at the beginning of the world's history.

The Pentateuch is remarkable for the expression, "The word," applied to the Divine Being. In the Book of Genesis we are told that the word was with God at the beginning of Eden, and to call it then "the Lord's" Day is no second-best of words.

If this rich and absolutely needed gift of the Divine Being be so remissly referred to "the Lord's" Day, the creature of man, is it not a fearful thing to forget that the richest earthly blessing is lost? This richest earthly blessing of the patriarchs was ensured to Israel by its obedience to the Lord. In the ten commandments, and in the laws which followed, we see the very principles which concern all human life. Are the tables of the

the government, and to their mill, in the name of their trade union. I have just Sunday evening the doors of the theatre were thrown open, and the public are invited on the promise of a free show. Should I not be surprised to find that the management has no comment to make on this, except that it believes it so illegal, but will pass on to another master. As thousands are already aware, it was decided by the Full Council of the Society, at the January Winding-up, that the publication of newspapers on Sunday is illegal; and yet in spite of this decision the law is openly broken and we are in defiance. Now, Sir, have I not a right to know the reasons for this, or to see the extensive and pious correspondence which the law, and still greater respect for it is made to be so sacred, and to see the reasons for the decision of the Full Council, but for the misreading of the law, and the fact that it is so sacred, and to see the reasons for the decision. I have no record at all. But what a sad and gloomy glare is that the tobaccoists and their friends put on their ordinary vocations on Sunday. I think I have seen the work of the tobaccoists, and I think I should be going too far if I were to say that it is the present state of things is a disgrace to those who are in possession: a blot upon our civilization, a blot upon our society. I think I have seen the work of the tobaccoists, and I think I should be going too far if I were to say that it is the present state of things is a disgrace to those who are in possession: a blot upon our civilization, a blot upon our society. I never said, it is to think that, though we send away thousands of pounds every year to convert the heathen in distant lands, there are in our midst living, breathing souls who are completely ignorant of the Christian faith, upon whose darkened minds the Gospel light shines; there are thousands who are dead spiritually and who have never been born again, beyond the great river, if that I have trespassed far beyond the great border allotted to correspondents, but the importance of the subject is my only plea.

As I have been writing the above I read with feelings of delight and pleasure, in this morning's Herald, the costs of printing accounts, reports, &c., of such trusts and societies, and that the standing committee be requested to

LATE HOURS IN SHOPS.

The Rev. W. HUGHES moved, "That this House do vote, in order to express its sympathy with the movement for the shortening of the hours of labour, particularly in the case of those who are employed as shopkeepers' assistants." He thought that properly it would be a subject upon which the House might properly be allowed to express an opinion, and might something be done from long hours in the shops. He thought an expression of sympathy from this representative body would be of service to those called upon to work those long hours.

Mr. ROWELL seconded the resolution.
Mr. KERR supported the resolution, and said that ed to propose, as speakers were treason, and they met in a friendly gathering, an intimation which was received with loud applause.

Mr. WHITE then expressed his desire to meet some of his friends in Parliament and out of it, and to do honour to the Ministry governing the colony in this important centennial year. The Government had celebrated the Centennial year in a very nice manner by inviting the different colonies to participate, and in allowing their representatives all the honour they could at the time at their disposal. He regretted, however, that the Centennial Exhibition was not held in New South Wales—but that would never detract from his desire to help the Melbourne people to the best of his power. (hear, hear.) He concluded by proposing the toast of the Centennial year. (hear, hear.)

The toast was received with full honours.

Mr. Barnes proposed "The Health of the Chairman."

Mr. Barnes said Mr. White for his kind invitation and entertainment. Mr. White had always been distinguished for his courtesy and his desire to do good, and they had evidence of it in his undertaking the work connected with this exhibition. On behalf of the Ministers he thanked Mr. White for his kindness. As the other Ministers were undoubtedly absent, he had felt it his duty to be present. Mr. White said he was glad to hear the expression of what he had done in connection with the exhibition.

The toast was warmly received.

PETER MOLLER'S CO LIVER OIL has such a thoroughly established reputation that it seems almost superfluous to say that it is one of the best medicines ever made or sold by man.

The manufacture, from the finest and freshest fish liver oil, is entirely in accordance with the most approved scientific principles, and its purity and efficiency are well known to all who have used it.

It is especially recommended for children, as it will develop their strength and induce healthy habits. It is also highly beneficial in all cases of debility and weakness, and should be carefully guarded against its adulteration.
